

What Motivates Vandenberg Silence? Writer Has Answers

BY CLARE BOOTHE LUCE

PHILADELPHIA — Does Arthur Vandenberg, the tough, hard-slogging — and silent — senator from Michigan, really want the nomination? Isn't he being a little too shrewd when he refuses to step into the ring, fighting?

After all, he was the fellow who pointed out a year ago that nobody was ever "drafted" without conspiring for his own nomination. Is he in such a conspiracy now? All the political wisecracks say Vandenberg does want to be President. That is one piece of irrefutable political evidence: He has opened headquarters.

And then there is the unqualified statement of Michigan's shrewd Governor Sigler, who said that Vandenberg is available, and punch-lined it with "I know what I'm talking about."

Then, what is keeping Vandenberg himself from making a clear, unequivocal statement about his availability?

The question is frustrating, confusing and, above all, saddening many of the senator's most ardent supporters. They feel it is the one thing that would release the great potential Vandenberg strength that lurks in every delegation.

As a longtime admirer and friend of Vandenberg, I am prepared to submit that the answer to the enigma of Vandenberg's silence lies in the character of the man himself. It is Vandenberg's style to keep to his pledged word, and to hold to a consistent course of conduct.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was fond of talking of his Holland heritage. And the late President's worst enemies never have denied him a great measure of courage. But when it comes to real "Dutch," Arthur Vandenberg makes Roosevelt look like a weather vane. For Vandenberg cannot be swayed to abandon a position that he believes to be both right and consistent.

Vandenberg has not sought the nomination because he felt that to do so would have endangered the bi-partisan conduct of our foreign policy. He does not seek it now because he believes that the other candidates would feel that even so belated a move would smack of opportunism and expediency, and that personal ambition had motivated his search for a sound American foreign policy from the beginning.

Vandenberg's one increasing purpose since he became chairman of the foreign relations committee in the senate has been the development and clarification of policies that would show the whole world that America had accepted the leadership destiny has thrust upon her with prudence, courage, common sense and consistency.

Vandenberg had learned the lesson of the Roosevelt regime. He knows that it is idle for a statesman to pirate of "one world" if he cannot even bring about unity in one nation. But national unity, rests to a large measure on party unity. Vandenberg also has learned the lesson of Willkie.

Unity, in the nation and the party, was the only climate in which the Vandenberg policies could be brought to a successful fruition. In getting unified national and party support for his policies, he had to have the help of Ohio's able and powerful Senator Taft; of popular, vigorous Harold Stassen, and, above all, of Tom Dewey — because of John Foster Dulles.

And he also needed the powerful help of Speaker of the House Joe Martin. History shows he got that help.

No one can say whether he would have gotten it if he had sought it while seeking his own nomination for the presidency. Arthur Vandenberg never thought he could.

As he makes dramatic entrance into the convention hall, he can face the GOP with a clear conscience and great pride. It has not only adopted his foreign program in the congress, but has incorporated it in the party platform. Van can tell himself that he has done more than any man in the party to restore Republican prestige in the eyes of the foreign nations, and to bring back confidence in Republicanism at home.

There's utterly no use in telling Arthur Vandenberg that he's got to "declare" on the ground that delegates seldom will fight for a man who won't fight for himself. He knows that; didn't he predict it months ago?

"And so," he says, "I see no reason, no necessary reason, for changing the course I set for myself a year ago. My position remains unchanged."

"What will you do if they nominate you anyway?" There is nothing weary or ambiguous or confusing in the deep-throated answer:

"Didn't I just get through voting for a bill to draft American boys? And if they, God forbid, had to go into battle for this country, how would they go? They'd go in fighting, and wouldn't quit this side of victory. That goes for any American who gets drafted — and it doesn't mean he wants it?"

History plays funny tricks on men. Or men play funny tricks on history. The man in this convention who probably has done most to insure the victory of the Republican party in November may have paid the biggest price a politician can pay when he has to choose between putting his own interests first — or the nation's. . . . The presidency!

GOP PLATFORM ANNOUNCED; PLEDGES INTERNATIONALISM, POTENT FORCES, CIVIL RIGHTS

BY MAX HALL

PHILADELPHIA, June 22 — Republican policy makers today completed a 1948 platform pledging internationalism, a potent military machine and civil rights for all.

The platform framers finally laid the text before the country after nearly a week of writing, wrangling, and revising.

The objective is to win as many votes as possible in November. The Democrats will write a platform next month for the same purpose. Chairman Henry Cabot Lodge of the GOP resolutions committee will offer the 2,400-word document — shortest in the party's history — to the national convention tomorrow for approval. Conventions usually accept platforms without a fuss. Republican National Chairman Carroll Reece today predicted "harmonious action."

Broad and Inclusive

The platform, adopted by the exhausted resolutions committee at 12:10 a. m., today and made public later in the morning, was described by Lodge as broad enough for any of the main Republican presidential hopefuls to stand upon.

It deals with scores of highly controversial topics, among them public housing, Israel, prices, and anti-Communist legislation.

The foreign policy plank—dedicated to "the preservation of a free America in a free world of free men" and plumping hard for "collective security against aggression"—bears the unmistakable marks of Michigan's Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, a possible darkhorse contender for the presidential nomination.

It pledges aid to other peace-loving countries on a basis of self-help (as in the present European Recovery plan). But the platform writers inserted these words: "Within the prudent limits of our own economic welfare."

The plank closely follows Vandenberg's ideas on strengthening the United Nations.

The plank says "we propose" maintaining the Army, Navy and Air force "to a degree which will insure our national security." Also: "The achievement of 'effective unity' in the department of national defense: 'Sustained effective action' to get 'sufficient' manpower for the services, 'recognizing action' to get 'sufficient' manpower for the services, 'recognizing the American principle that every citizen has an obligation of service to his country.'"

There was no mention, by name, of either the draft bill passed by congress just before it adjourned last Sunday morning, or of universal military training, which Truman asked in his message.

Stand Firm

On civil rights, the platform is not far different from President Truman's program which caused such an outcry from Southern Democrats. The Republicans called for prompt legislation to outlaw lynching and to abolish the poll tax. They opposed the idea of racial segregation in the armed forces.

The term "fair employment practice commission" was knocked out of a preliminary draft, but the finished version favors enactment of "such federal legislation as may be necessary" to maintain the right of every individual "to work and advance in life," regardless of race or religion.

On another controversial domestic subject there was a battle in the GOP resolutions committee—and the public housing advocates won. The plank finally written recommends "federal aid to the states for local slum clearance and low-rental housing programs," but only where there's a need that can't be met by

NLRB Orders Akron Plant Restored Or Employees Re-Hired

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 22—In the first ruling of its kind, the National Labor Relations Board today ordered Howard Rome either to return his toy factory to Akron or to hire 28 Akron employees at Kenton.

The United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic workers (CIO) accused him of moving to Kenton to avoid a scheduled bargaining conference. The board in its unprecedented decision, agreed, and found him, the Rome Products Co., and the Kenton Plastics Corp., guilty of unfair labor practices.

The removal, the union contended, constituted an illegal lockout.

"The single most important factor behind the move to Kenton was not economic, as Rome claimed, but instead was the unlawful and improper objective of avoiding the necessity of dealing with the union," the board said in its order.

"Rome made repeated threats to move rather than deal with an affiliated union; in addition he evinced an attitude of bitter opposition to the union in numerous other coercive and illegal acts and statements."

"Immediately upon resumption of production in Kenton, several of the Akron employees were hired. In this group were persons who had previously belonged to the union, although a very large majority of the Akron employees had been members of the union."

"Finally, the move was contemplated in great haste and on the basis of a mere oral and apparently incomplete arrangement."

"Rome not only concealed his intentions until the plant removal was an accomplished fact, but also refused, on request, to tell the union representative, on the day after the move, the name of the new company or the place at which operations were to be resumed. The union was thus unlawfully deprived of the opportunity to bargain with Rome about the possible transfer of employees to the Kenton plant."

The board stated that at the time the union started organization Rome employed 48 persons and by the time he closed the plant in Akron on July 25, 1946, 28 employees remained.

APPROVAL OF PENSION PLAN IS GRANTED

John L. Lewis Wins His First Victory Before Judge Goldsborough

WASHINGTON, June 22—Justice T. Alan Goldsborough today gave John L. Lewis a legal go-ahead for his $100 monthly pension plan for miners.

Goldsborough dismissed a plea of Ezra Van Horn, trustee for operators on the United Mine Workers' welfare fund, for a court order to block payment of pensions for retired miners.

The judge said he found the proposal for payments "reasonable and proper."

For Lewis, it marked his first triumph on three trips into Judge Goldsborough's court. Twice before he had been there only to be fined for contempt of court for failure to end walkouts in obedience to Goldsborough orders.

It was a dispute over pensions that brought about the costly six-week strike last spring.

The proposed system of payments was evolved by Lewis and Senator H. Styles Bridges (R-NY). Bridges became neutral member of the welfare board and sided with Lewis in setting up the plan.

Van Horn refused to approve the payments and went into court to ask that it be declared illegal.

Goldsborough said the plan, which was only tentative and may be changed as experience dictates, does not violate either the 1947 coal work contract, made last July, or the Taft-Hartley Labor act.

The plan provides $100 a month for UMW members who are 62 years of age or older and who have worked in the pits for at least 20 years.

Lewis and Bridges agreed to set aside $5,000,000 of the $45,000,000 fund to start the pension payments.

Battle Tightens Between "Big 3;" No One Gaining

BY JACK BELL

CONVENTION HALL, Philadelphia, June 22 — The Republicans whooping it up for victory in November, got their platform all but finished today but still were in a fog of uncertainty over who is to take his stand on it as their choice for President.

Many of the delegates who straggled into this big hall for the second day's sessions had been up half the night or more in who-will-it-be conferences.

But from all reports, these meetings had served only to draw the lines tighter in the Dewey-Taft-Stassen struggle for the nomination.

The intensity of the delegate hunt was illustrated by the activity of Senator Robert A. Taft. Before the morning session of the convention, he conferred with the Missouri and Kansas delegations.

Awaiting him were conferences with the Wisconsin, Tennessee, Utah, New Jersey, Vermont, Iowa, Alabama and Hawaii groups.

The convention won't get around to nominating speeches until tomorrow. Balloting may begin tomorrow night, but possibly not until Thursday.

Herbert Brownell, one of Dewey's managers, told reporters it will be a "startling revelation" then the name of the delegate to nominate Dewey is announced. This presumably was meant to hint that it will be some leading GOP figure not yet publicly declared for Dewey.

California's big delegation met and reaffirmed a "do or die" stand for Gov. Earl Warren.

Senator William F. Knowland, Warren's convention manager, announced the stand to reporters. A newsman told him there were published reports he would attempt to swing California's 53 delegates to back a Vandenberg-Stassen ticket.

"There is not one word of truth or foundation to that rumor," Knowland said.

With this blitz whistling around them, the men who front for the Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Illinois delegations pulled further back into their shells.

By unspoken consent they seemed to be agreed that—with the probable exception of an Illinois turn for Taft—there will be no big break for any of the top runners until a third roll call is reached sometime Thursday.

Development Aids Vandenberg

This development pleased Michigan delegates seeking to get Senator Arthur Vandenberg's candidacy off the ground.

It fit the plans of Gov. Earl Warren to keep California's 53 votes tucked in his pocket.

It gave renewed hope to such a possible nominee as House Speaker Joseph Martin of Massachusetts. Martin takes over today the powerful post of the convention's permanent chairmanship.

But it made painful going for Dewey and Taft—expected pace-setters on the first ballot—in their now desperate efforts to line up a nominating total.

The convention concerned itself chiefly today with a platform that pledged continued American aid to peace-loving nations who help themselves.

Another plank promised that if Republicans get their coveted hold on the White House they will press strong measures to defeat Communism at home.

Ohioan Speaks At Today's Session

The bristling speech by the former Connecticut house member brought the convention's first-day formalities to a close.

Rep. Frances P. Bolton of Ohio covered less ground in an address prepared for today's session. She appealed to women voters to use their power to help elect a Republican President.

Another speaker today was Senator Raymond Baldwin, Connecticut's favorite son, who pledged with the delegates to take a strong stand against special privilege.

"This is our moral opportunity to open doors that are shut because of creed or race or color, to whip out the last vestige of under privilege and the last vestige of special privilege," Baldwin declared in his advance text.

The Root of Government

A national political convention is, next to the town meeting, the best example of self-government in action. This is especially true of conventions in which the outcome is uncertain, as it clearly is in the Republican convention this year.

The root of self-government is the privilege of decision. While the symbol of this privilege is the Constitution, which guarantees it, the Constitution contains no sanction for political conventions. They have been devised outside constitutional law as an outgrowth of the party system.

Rules and regulations are determined by the delegates themselves. The modus operandi, as politicians tirelessly point out, is determined by the ingenuity of those who attend the conventions and the varying circumstances of politics. No two conventions are exactly the same. Some of the highest points in convention history were the result of improvisations.

There is ample room in the convention system for emotion. That's as it should be, because emotion has at least as much to do with political in a free country as logic. Those who complain because conventions sometimes seem to draw on emotion to the point of hysteria are the sacrifice of logic should bear in mind that logic fares even worse under dictatorship, which professes to be able to plan both politics and the national economy on an entirely rational basis.

One of the characteristics of conventions is that no one can be sure what happened and why until long afterward, when the participants and observers have gained perspective. That's why it's fun to attend them, to read about them, to listen to them. Self-government in action is rarely an orderly process. It's never a cut-and-dried process, which is the main reason why it's cherished by all Americans, except the minority that prefers to tell people what to do, not to let them make their own decisions.

The Fallacy of Federal Handouts

Senator Martin of Pennsylvania recently explained why the federal budget stays in the stratosphere. He said, "about a year and a half ago the people placed the Republicans in control because the party was pledged to a platform calling for economy in government . . . we made a good start, and then what happened? The people, who had voted for economy, began to indicate, in one way or another, that they really didn't mean it."

"Many of them told congress that they wanted government spending to pay for a great variety of benefits. The pressure groups swarmed into Washington from all directions, representing business groups, welfare and educational interests, and even state and city governments."

Senator Martin's advice to the people is to learn that seemingly easy federal spending will have to be paid for tomorrow in sweat, tears and even a share of the liberties and privileges that have belonged to Americans. There is no such thing as "free money." The federal government must take away before it can give back.

Libel On Dixie

Speaking at a commencement some weeks ago, James Byrnes, a former secretary of state, fared up and let fly at Yankees who poke fun at southerners for saying "you all."

He said, "I have never heard any person in South Carolina, educated or uneducated, white or colored, use the phrase 'you all' except in the plural. Used in the plural it is good English. There is nothing that irritates me more than to attend the theater in New York and hear an actor, who has never been south of the Potomac, impersonate a southerner and in addressing an individual say 'you all.'"

Since, then editorial commendation of Mr. Byrnes has been echoing and re-echoing in the southern press like summer thunder in the Great Smokies.

The dissent of the former Supreme court justice is noted. But somewhere, sometime in the past there must have been a southerner who lapsed momentarily from grammatical rectitude. The damage was done. From then on, the Yankee's picture of the southerner was one who subsisted on grits and compote, lived in a white porticoed mansion and ended every sentence with "you all."

Return Engagement

California's "ham 'n' eggs" movement of the 1930's isn't dead; it was just sleeping. It's backers have obtained 297,710 signatures to place on the November ballot an omnibus bill of rights that has something for everybody.

Besides purporting to take care of the old folks in the grand manner, the bill would extend legality to bookmakers, lottery operators and quack healers. It would set up burial funds, reapportion the state senate and even provide for the sale of colored oleo. The only one to pay through the nose would be old John Taxpayer who would have to shower down with a 2 percent gross receipts tax. If that didn't turn out enough, the levy could be raised to 5, 10 or 25 percent, or whatever might be needed.

The bill will appeal to gambling interests, gold-brick peddlers and those on the lookout for something for nothing. But the plan isn't likely to have the appeal it did in the 1930's when it felt considerably short of a majority. The pavement pounders and relief rollers of depression days are, for the most part, wage-earning citizens today. Prosperity dissipates up-by-the-bootstrap financial mirages that take shape on the horizon during depressions.

Fittings By Camera

Clothing stores soon will have a camera device to fit men photographically with suits. A development of the bellion idea, the camera takes simultaneous pictures from front, rear, side and overhead. Projected against a measurement scale, the pictures show the suit's exact measurements.

All men are measured for suits at one time or another, but not all men care much about having their pictures taken. With the new device they can kill two birds with one stone. On the same order blank the camera-shy man can requisition a two-piece suit and enough pictures for all the family albums to apd including second cousins once removed.

THE danger of treachery, duplicity, loss and scandal holds over, menacing important plans and objectives in which higher-ups are vitally interested and ready to advance toward events of major proportions. Such seem beset by subtle undercurrents of a fraudulent, subtle, and curious nature, difficult to put the finger on.

However, this craftiness or collusion may so distort affairs as to reach the public ear, resulting in ill-report, gossip and discredit, in personal as well as business affiliations. An alert and prudent course of action might defeat such baneful machinations. Be wise in making all contacts.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may feel the drive of heightened energies and a keen spirit of initiative urging them on to adventure or the launching of bold projects, possibly in new fields or in experimental lines, and the weight and potency of such aggressiveness may attract ambitious supporters.

Herein lies a danger of wrong judgments, misplaced confidences or unfortunate alliances, serving to circumvent, defeat, and involve the individual in eventual scandal and material loss as well. Keep all moves and contacts open and above board and avoid damage.

A child born on this day may be practical, energetic and enthusiasm may impel it into taking long chances, and involving it in sinister alliances and snares.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Rheumatic Fever Treatment

By HERMAN N. RUNDSEEN, M.D.

Hemoglobin is the substance which gives the blood its coloring matter and also enables it to carry oxygen. Thus it is of enormous importance to our health and well-being. Iron is one of the chief constituents of hemoglobin and, for that reason, a certain amount of iron must be supplied by the food that we eat.

A person who does not get enough iron-containing foods is pretty sure to develop anemia with a decrease in the number of red cells and a marked drop in the amount of red coloring matter. In these cases, treatment consists of giving iron-containing preparations until the red cells, with their hemoglobin content, are restored to normal levels.

Amount of Iron

Here, several questions may arise: How much iron should be used, what type of iron salt is best employed and whether or not the addition of liver extract and vitamin B-complex will speed up the recovery?

Some studies were carried out by Drs. S. O. Schwartz and B. E. Armstrong, of Chicago, on 55 women who had anemia. They found that when the iron preparations were administered for one or two months, there was a rapid recovery period. During the next month, the blood coloring level rose above normal, with a return to the normal level between the fourth and sixth months.

Good Results

About 250 mg. of iron, given in the form of iron and ammonium citrate or ferrous sulfate, gave as good results as quantities almost double this amount. There did not appear to be any difference in the response obtained, no matter what type of iron salt was employed. Furthermore, the addition of the B-complex vitamin and liver extract did not seem to increase the action of the iron. However, it was definitely determined that, in treating anemia, at least three months of administration of the iron-containing preparation was required to obtain the maximum effect.

Anemia may be present without causing any particular symptoms other than perhaps some slight pal-lor of the skin, and fatigue. Thus, the patient's symptoms cannot be used as a guide as to how much improvement is occurring. Examination of the blood by the physician is necessary to tell how the patient is progressing. Of course, there are many other causes of anemia besides lack of iron in the diet. In these cases, it is necessary to eliminate the cause before treatment with iron preparations can be successful.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Reader: Will you please tell me something about breath-holding attacks. Are they dangerous to the child?

Answer: The treatment of breath-holding attacks consists in ignoring them entirely. If the baby starts to hold his breath, merely walk away and leave him in the room until he stops. If you persist in doing this two or three times, the attacks will soon cease. Such attacks are not dangerous.

Boyle's COLUMN

BY HAL BOYLE

PHILADELPHIA — Convention

A new surprise compromise ticket to lead the Republican party to presidential victory after 16 famished years was proposed today by Henry Louis Mencken.

"I'm in favor of a ticket with Herbert Hoover for President and Landon for Vice President," said Baltimore's peppery literary sage. "Hoover is the buggy, and Landon is the horse."

When it was pointed out to him by an innocent bystander that he was putting the cart before the horse, Mencken, who doesn't think the "horse and buggy days" were as bad as some people paint them, said:

"That might be a good idea today."

Rightly in a blue polka dot tie, dark blue coat and light seersucker trousers, Mencken said he had attended his first national political convention in 1904 and that he had "come back from the grave after eight years" to see this one.

"I figure this will be my last one," he smiled with his usual cherry optimism. He will be 68 this year.

"I don't know who'll get the nomination. But these conventions are all the same. They don't vary by one per cent. All bla-a-a-h.

"Dewey's improved a lot. He speaks the best English of any man in public life today."

But Mencken immediately retreated into the shell which marks him as one of the most non-partisan men at the convention.

"I really am completely neutral," he grinned. "I'm against 'em all."

ONE OF THE first things you notice at a convention is the "lobby look."

This is a kind of frozen-faced grimace of welcome which people wear when being introduced to other people while they are looking around for still more important people.

The reason is simple. When one man greets another here, both can clap each other on the back and still look over the other fellow's shoulder for some person he would rather see. Women, being prisoners of an older convention, polite rather than political, can't do that.

The feminine version of the "lobby look" is a creased face that says "Howdy do" and a wandering eye that says "where are you—the one I'd rather be with?"

I SUPPOSE this is the oldest joke in the Republican party. But it is going around the convention, and I set it down for the young and pure in heart who, like myself, have never heard of it. The story:

A member of a southern delegation was asked who his group stood for. He replied:

"Some of us is for Dewey, some of us is for Taft—but all of us is for sale."

THERE ARE those here who believe that Senator Arthur Vandenberg will take the presidential nomination he hasn't—so far—contended for but has never disclaimed.

There are a lot of people who have this belief, including the senator's son.

One of his supporters told me an interesting incident. Some months ago Senator Vandenberg's wife underwent an operation in a Grand Rapids hospital. The worried statesman sweated out the ordeal in a park across the street.

A bum sat down on the bench by him. Vandenberg, ripping open his collar in his lonely nervousness, said:

"Listen, come here. I want to talk to you for half an hour."

The bum listened. Afterward he said, "I know who you are, Senator."

Vandenberg then explained the situation and his worry over how his wife was faring under the surgeon's knife. The bum shook his head. He was against operations.

"It's a great mistake, Senator," he said, disapprovingly. "There's nothing that whisky won't cure."

FORT WAYNE, Ind.—When Robert Skeetz was courting his wife he promised her that she'd always have a piano.

Kathryn Jane Griffin Bride Saturday Of Wayne Wilson

The sun through the stained glass windows and the glow of yellow candles in tall seven branch candelabras, palms, ferns and twin bouquets of yellow Marguerite daisies, Peruvian lilies and marigolds made a beautiful altar setting for the wedding of Kathryn Jane Griffin to Wayne Wilson at 6 p. m. Sunday in the Presbyterian church.

Rev. Ashley Wilson, father of the groom, heard the exchange of vows in the double ring ceremony, while James H. Griffin gave his daughter in marriage.

Mrs. Ruth Berry included the selections "Through the Years" and "Finlandia" in the brief organ recital which preceded the appearance of the bridal party, and accompanied Miss Elizabeth Dales who sang "Because" and "Oh Promise Me."

The traditional wedding marches were used for processional and recessional.

Gowned In Taffeta

The bride, carrying an arm bouquet of Tullman roses and maiden-hair fern was attractive in a formal gown of yellow taffeta and net. She wore a single strand of pearls, the gift of the groom. A deep bertha of taffeta brought together with a bow at the rounded neckline was attached to a bodice of the same material on which was gathered a full overskirt of net.

Bands of taffeta, ending in bows styled after the shoulder bow, were used spiral fashion to compliment the skirt. Mitts in matching taffeta and a waist-length yellow veil, which fell back from a pearl tiara of simulated orange blossoms, completed her costume.

Miss Eleanor Williams, maid of honor, also was gown in net and taffeta in an aqua shade and for contrast she carried yellow roses.

For her bridesmaids, Miss Griffin chose Mrs. Michael Zimmerman of Alliance, who appeared in pink shadow brocade formal sheer, while Mrs. Leonard Bonsall of San Jose, Calif., wore a gown of blue marquisette and net over taffeta.

They both carried yellow roses, be-ribboned with silk mauline, and their hair ornaments and veils copied the maid of honor's except as to color.

Polly Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jones, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Blue net over georgette, trimmed with yellow ribbon bows was used for her floor-length gown, with which she carried an old-fashioned nosegay of pansies.

On a yellow taffeta and lace pillow shaped as a heart, rested the rings, which went to the altar with the ring bearer, Freddie Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart of Salem. His formal attire consisted of a white double-breasted suit.

Charles Maxwell of Greenford served Mr. Wilson as best man, while Wenzel Alspaugh, Leonard Bonsall, Michael Zimmerman and James Griffin, brother of the bride, ushered.

Miss Williams was given a necklace and earring set, the bridesmaids received hammered silver ornaments, and the men of the wedding party were presented bill-folds.

Reception Is Held

A reception for friends and relatives was held in the church chapel, which was a bower of garden blossoms. Mrs. Charles Haldi and Mrs. Vance McNamee of Salem and Mrs. Mate Shambaugh of Perryville were hostesses.

White roses and baby's breath arranged in crystal with twin crystal candelabra holding tall white tapers, on white lace, made the setting for the refreshment table.

A tiny bride and groom in a chapel of small white bells, topped the three tiered wedding cake, which was served to more than 100 guests. Roses encircled the crystal standard on which the cake rested. A graduate of Salem High school and Business college, Mrs. Wilson is co-partner with Miss Williams of the Salem Style Shop. He holds degrees from DuBols (Pa.) High school, Penn State and Muskingum college and is associated with the First National bank.

For her going away costume, the bride chose a street-length silk frock of black on white Chinese print, a black picture hat and matching accessories. Pearls were her only ornament.

After a week's trip through the mid-west, the couple will be at home at 945 Franklin st.

Davis-Kolbfell Wedding Is Held

Rev. E. S. Scott, pastor of the Christian church, heard the exchange of vows when Miss Betty M. Davis became the bride of William Kolbfell before an altar of flowers at 2 p. m. Sunday in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Davis of the Depot rd.

Miss Sally Kolbfell, sister of the groom was bridesmaid, while Ralph Paulun of Teegarden served as best man. Only the immediate families witnessed the ceremony.

Miss Davis wore a two-piece frock of white rayon, with gold button trim, complemented by a white flower halo hat and a corsage of red roses. Matching accessories and a strand of pearls, the gift of the groom, completed her costume.

A red flower hat augmented the two-piece pink dress worn by Miss Kolbfell. Her corsage was similar to that of the bride.

Reception Follows

A reception was held for friends after the wedding with the three tiered wedding cake, topped by the traditional miniature bride and groom, the center attraction at the refreshment table.

Out-of-town guests were from Youngstown, East Palestine, Salem and included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Simon S. Dotson of Lisbon.

The bride graduated this year from Salem High school and has been employed at the Murphy Co. Mr. Kolbfell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kolbfell of 409 E. Second st., followed service in an army hospital unit with employment at Mullins plant where he is in the electrical department.

After a two-week honeymoon in Chicago, the couple will make their home near Salem.

DEPARTMENT OF INFORMATION

Surprising enough, the Leetonia High school officials recently announced the employment of a new football coach, Harold E. Morrow of Minerva.

The move comes technically as a surprise because no official announcement has ever been made that there was any vacancy at Leetonia. However, it has been rumored for some time that Vince Cooper, head football man last season, was moving. As yet no announcement of where Cooper is to coach next season has been made.

Morrow, a Mount Union product and also a high school protege of ex-Leetonia principal James L. McBride, now at Sebring High, will be taking over his first head job at the football tasks.

Morrow steps into a difficult spot.

for Leetonia hasn't been on top of the heap in football since the final season that Chuck Mather spent there. Since Mather left there has been a procession of coaches, including Joe Fortunato and Cooper, each spending one year at the Blue and White Bear school.

Bud Dean, head basketball man and assistant in football last season, apparently is remaining on the coaching staff, although there have been some unconfirmed rumors that a new coach will be hired.

Morrow, a comparative youngster to the coaching field, comes to Leetonia from his hometown, Minerva, where he assisted in football last year. He is reportedly anxious to work with the boys and is an ardent football student.

He played last season at Mount Union, where he finished college after three years service in the Army. He received his diploma at Mount in May.

Leetonia's approaching schedule is nothing to be sneezed at, especially in light of the gridiron woes that have been plaguing the little city for the past two seasons.

Although the previous "big game" of the year, with Salem, has been deleted, the schedule-makers added Toronto, a Class A school with no mean reputation.

Local fans who get a big bang out of their baseball, and enjoy a few good laughs on the side, will do well to take a jaunt out to Centennial park Wednesday evening to see the Zulu Giants in action against the Salem Amvets.

Although the locals are no push-over for anyone, according to advance notices the Giants are so talented that they are usually able to give quite an intensive and entertaining side-line show in addition to playing victory-brand ball.

Clad in grass skirts, typical cannibal makeup and feathered head-dresses, the colored outfit features some of the best from the National Negro league. The hurlers for the team are reputedly of a calibre with the famous Satchel Paige, and one of their number has defeated Paige in five successive jousts.

The game is set for 6 p. m. Wednesday at the northern park diamond.

The hurlers for the team are reputedly of a calibre with the famous Satchel Paige, and one of their number has defeated Paige in five successive jousts.

The game is set for 6 p. m. Wednesday at the northern park diamond.

Local fans who get a big bang out of their baseball, and enjoy a few good laughs on the side, will do well to take a jaunt out to Centennial park Wednesday evening to see the Zulu Giants in action against the Salem Amvets.

Although the locals are no push-over for anyone, according to advance notices the Giants are so talented that they are usually able to give quite an intensive and entertaining side-line show in addition to playing victory-brand ball.

Clad in grass skirts, typical cannibal makeup and feathered head-dresses, the colored outfit features some of the best from the National Negro league. HANK SAUER HITS 200TH HOME RUN OF SEASON, WINS TILT

Young Rookie May Become Best Homer Hitter In Cincy History

Hammering Hank Sauer, in his first full year in the major leagues, gave promise today of blossoming into the greatest home run hitter in Cincinnati baseball history.

The 29-year-old outfielder yesterday tied a club record for the most home runs hit by a righthanded batter when he blasted his 20th picnic at Firestone park, Columbus, Ohio.

The blow enabled the Reds to nip the Phillies, 4-3, in a night game in Philadelphia. The victory, Cincinnati's second in its last 10 games, snapped a four-game losing streak.

Until yesterday, Ernie Lombardi, in 1939, and Frank McCormick, in 1944, were the only righthanded batters in Cincinnati's long history to hit 20 home runs in one season.

Alpha Brazle bested Warren Spahn in a brilliant southpaw pitching duel to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 1-0 victory over the league leading Braves in a night game in Boston. Brazle, who has pitched only one other complete game this season, thus became the first pitcher in the last 24 games to go the distance against the Braves. He allowed seven hits to six for Spahn.

The Braves, however, maintained their game and a half margin on the runner-up Pittsburgh Pirates who were defeated by the Dodgers in a night game in Brooklyn 5-2.

Allie Reynolds pitched the Yankees to an easy 13-2 triumph over his former Indian mates in a night game in Cleveland. The victory cut Cleveland's first place lead over the Yankees in the American league pennant race to two and a half games.

The Yankees accumulated 18 hits including home runs by Joe DiMaggio and George Stinnett. It was DiMaggio's 15th to put him only one behind Ken Keltner of Cleveland for the league lead.</ ing the New Yorker for the nomination.

Taft forces were hard put to explain this result after earlier predictions that they would put over their own delegation. There was a possibility they might appeal the decision to the convention.

But any such action would amount to an outright Dewey-Taft test on a side issue, with the loser bound to suffer a blow to his prestige.

Taft Not Sure of Stassen Support
Despite continued talk of a possible Taft-Stassen combine, the Ohio senator's backers, seemingly felt that they could not count on followers of the former Minnesota governor to side fully with them on any such test.

There seemed to be little doubt that if Stassen can't make the hill for the presidential nomination, he would throw support to Taft rather than lose the choice by only being the two.

The Taft-Stassen combine proposal was brought out into the open by Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of The Chicago Tribune.

In a bluntly worded statement, the publisher said he is for Taft and has no second choice. He said Vandenberg "can't even carry Michigan." He predicted Dewey can't win more than the 12 states the New Yorker carried in his successful 1944 presidential campaign.

Of Stassen as a possible vice presidential nominee, McCormick said: "Stassen is strong with the young people but mature people think he lacks maturity. In 1900, McKidney was nominated for his prestige and Theodore Roosevelt for his personal popularity. Therefore, it seems reasonable to nominate Taft and Stassen for the same reasons."

Stassen called it "a friendly statement." He said he is in the presidential race to stay. But he didn't slam the door on the second place suggestion.

Taft volunteered that he would be glad to "accept any vice presidential candidate the convention nominates."

Herbert E. Brownell, Dewey's campaign manager, said he is "glad the Taft-Stassen ticket is out in the open at last."

Within the 36-vote Illinois delegation, of which McCormick is a member, there was confusion. But the gist of comment was that Taft's hold on the majority of the delegates may have been tightened, once they get through voting for Green on the first roll call.

The other favorite son states backed away, however, from any second ballot break.

Probate Judges' Pictures Recall History of Court

LISBON, June 22—Fifteen probate judges who have served Columbiana county since the court was established in 1852 looked down from the walls of the courtroom today following the "hanging" of new and enlarged photographs.

First to serve in the capacity of judge of Columbiana county was John Reid, who served from 1852 to 1855, after which succession of judges elected and their tenure of office was as follows:

Moore, 1885-1891; Judge Peter C. Young, 1891-1897; Judge Joshua C. Boone, 1897-1903; Judge James A. Martin, 1903-1908; Judge Louis T. Farr, 1908-1916; Judge George E. Riddle, 1916-1917; and 1921-1933; Judge Samuel W. Crawford, 1917-1921; Judge H. W. Hammond, 1933-1945; and the present jurist, Judge Milton C. Cope.

Here in brief is what the platform says about:

Brief Outline
Communists — It pledges enactment of "such new legislation as may be necessary to expose the treasonable activities of Communists and defeat their objective of establishing here a Godless dictatorship controlled from abroad." There was no mention of the house-passed Mundt-Nixon bill which died in a senate pigeon-hole after stirring widespread controversy. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Harold E.

Stassen engaged in a public radio debate on the issue.
Elections — It favors a change in the method of electing Presidents in order to "more exactly reflect the popular vote."

Tidelands — It favors "restoration to the states of their historic rights to the tide and submerged lands, tributary waters, lakes, and streams."

Farm — "Farm prices should be supported on a just basis," and farm co-operatives should continue to be encouraged.

Labor — It pledges "continuing study to improve labor-management legislation in the light of experience and changing conditions."

Inflation — It charges that the Democrats by their policies have "deliberately encouraged higher prices," and promises to combat inflation by cutting government waste, stimulating production, trimming the public debt, and maintaining a sound currency.
